

One of the easiest and quickest ways to create a stop motion animation is to use people as your subject matter. Simply gather together a group of friends and spend a hilarious few hours creating a masterpiece. With this technique you can make the seemingly impossible, possible, and have endless fun!

You can animate your friends in whatever way you wish. Make them float across the room by capturing a frame every time they jump, or create a race track by getting them to sit on stools (racing cars) and animate your very own Grand Prix!

The possibilities are endless, so be as creative as you can!

Idea! Create an animation of someone riding a broomstick around the garden.
